

INTRODUCING THE HEYSEN:

Setting a new standard of apartment living on Sydney's Upper North Shore

Sydney, 12 July 2016 - Aqualand has settled on its latest acquisition, a development site bordered by Turramurra Avenue and Wonga Wonga Street in the upper North Shore Sydney suburb of Turramurra, which was purchased for $15 million.

To be known as The Heysen, the four storey boutique development will feature 44 high-end one, two and three bedroom apartments, all with large outdoor terraces that will allow residents to make the most of the leafy, serene location.

Only 17kms from the CBD, residents of The Heysen will enjoy being conveniently situated close to the train station (600m away) and a short stroll to Turramurra village with easy access to a Coles Supermarket, library, cafes and restaurants. An abundance of green open spaces are also in short walking distance, with the Karuah Oval and Turramurra Memorial Park adjacent.

Aqualand General Manager, Nick Tobin, said, "Aqualand is thrilled to have settled on this new site which features a number of huge 100 year old gum trees that we be preserved for the future residents to enjoy.

"Bringing a new standard of apartment living to the upper North Shore, The Heysen will be a luxurious and tranquil home for residents featuring a stunning design, the high quality finishings that Aqualand prides itself on and the ease and comfort that only a brand new apartment lifestyle has to offer."

"We look forward to creating a new landmark in Turramurra that provides the perfect opportunity for a broad mix of residents – from those wanting to downsize from their family home nearby, city workers seeking a convenient commute to the city to those looking for a vibrant community in which to raise their family," Nick Tobin said.

The apartments will be marketed exclusively by Colliers International and on sale later this year. For more information contact 1800 858 399.
